The Bradwell 18 is a comfortable cruising yacht that is within the budget of most families. It features a retractable centre plate which is easily lifted without too much effort which also means it is not necessary to have a mooring or a berth in a marina. The Bradwell 18 stores neatly on a trailer, in a garage or driveway until you use it. It can then be launched in a matter of minutes and in only 18 inches of water. The mast is of light aluminium and is easily rigged for sailing.

The Bradwell 18 was designed for mobility and can be trailed easily. The special retractable centre plate is designed so that it is completely recessed within the hull for trailing. With the centre plate retracted and the detachable rudder off, the boat is into the water without a snag. Rigging the mast is a quick and easy operation.

For trailing, the mast stores neatly and securely on top of the boat and is readily accessible when you reach the water.

The attractive interior has ample cruising accommodation for the average size family. It sleeps four in full-size berths and there is room for two more in the big cockpit. There is also space for a marine toilet and galley stove. All of this sailing cruising fun is available for less than the cost of an average car.

The efficient use of space gives the Bradwell 18 an amazing amount of interior room. Large double 'V' berth forward, two full-size single berths. All berths are durable vinyl covered foam for comfort and long life. Good ventilation is provided for by the two large hatches and the four large fixed windows brighten the cabin with natural light.
